10 CENTS PER WEEK

FIVE HUNDRED MEN GET MORE MONEY

Extra Hour Added in Locomotive Department

Payroll of Shops Increased $6,720 Each Month By Order Just Put In Effect.

WOODWORKERS HAVE HOPES.

Over 500 employees of the Illinois Central locomotive department were made happy this morning by the posting of a bulletin announcing an increase in working hours. It means an increase of $6,720 for the entire force per month.

Beginning today the entire locomotive department force, taking in the machine shops, boiler shops, blacksmith shops and round house, works 10 hours a day instead of 8 hours, the working day which has obtained the last several months. The force will work from 7 o'clock in the morning to noon, and 1 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. This affects the machinists, blacksmiths, boilermakers and their helpers.

A bulletin increasing the working day in the wood working department is expected before February is over. The early dawn and late dusk make it possible to work longer in the shops, and the vast amount of work makes it necessary to utilize the limit of time.

ROADMASTER HERE

Expects Orders for New Coal Chute in Short Time.

Mr. A. F. Bliss, road master of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central, is in Paducah today looking after the coal chute situation. He stated that he does not know when orders to build a new coal chute will arrive, but expects some decision at once. The engines here are being coaled by hand. They are run on sidings next to loaded coal cars and a large force of negroes is kept constantly employed filling tenders. This will be continued until the locomotive crane arrives.

REHKOPF BUGGY CO.

Articles of incorporation of the John G. Rehkopf Buggy company were filed in county court this morning. The incorporators with the amount of stock held by each follow: John G. Rehkopf, 94; Earl Walters, 3; Elias Jones, 3. The capital stock is fixed at $10,000, divided into 100 shares of $100 each. The nature of the business is dealing in harness and buggies.

CHARITY CLUB IS CARING FOR POOR

Twenty orders for fuel and nearly as many for food, is the record for the past two days for the Charity club. Secretary Jap Toner has been kept busy since the cold weather arrived and this morning up until noon had received over eight applications for fuel and food.

There are about 12 families all told who have to be kept by the club," Mr. Toner said. "Most of these are widows with families. In some instances they are families where a boy or girl works but can not earn enough for all. In each case there is sickness."

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD WILL ELECT TONIGHT.

At the regular meeting of the board of trustees of the public library tonight officers will be elected for the ensuing year. E. W. Bagby, the president, probably will be re-elected.

More Anti-Canteen Crime.
Ans. Ia., Feb. 5.—In a drunken brawl today Ross Fry was seriously knifed about the head and face. Worley Hardesty, released recently from Fort Madison penitentiary, was arrested charged with the cutting.

Taken to Jail.
Major Edithrope who was taken to Riverside hospital several days ago for treatment for delirium tremens, this morning was removed to the county jail.

FIGHT STRIKERS.

Ashtabula, Ohio, Feb. 5.—Men employed by the Pittsburgh Construction company fought fiercely with strikers this morning. Guns, clubs and knives were used. At the conclusion of the battle one man was dead on the ground. The attacking party was said to be strikers, armed with guns and clubs. After the onslaught the attacking party fled. The dead man is supposed to be George Butler, one of the attacking party.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

Bismark, N. D., Feb. 5.—A report from Goodrich is to the effect that an unknown woman and five children were frozen to death there last night.

SHOOTS OFFICER.

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 5.—Isaac Lewis, a patrolman, shot and killed Police Captain Holzapfel today. There is no known motive for the deed. Lewis has been on the force eleven years and has a good record. Fellow officers heard the shot and grappled with Lewis, who acted like a maniac.

MAYFIELD FIRE STILL MYSTERY

Identity of Dead Man, Motive of Murder and Origin of Fire Obscured in Uncertainty—Fire Marshal There

FOUL PLAY, ACCIDENT, SUICIDE?

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—After 24 hours spent in investigating the fire at Parker's boarding house Sunday night, in which a stranger, whose name is supposed to be Doyle, was killed, the authorities are no nearer a solution of the mystery of the origin of the fire and the dead man's identity than before. All theories as to Doyle's identity so far have been disproven, by the parties whom he was supposed to be reporting alive and well.

The murder theory is still clung to by some, but no motive has been discovered, and no arrests probably will be made. State Fire Marshal Mott Ayers and his attorney, Clem Waltemore, are in Mayfield and are working hard. The coroner will not hold an inquest until all the evidence possible to secure is in.

Marks on the man indicate murder, but he might have committed suicide or sustained injuries in falling two stories within the building. The dead was in an interior room with no window. He was drunk and may have set the building on fire accidentally.

NOT THE SOLDIERS SAYS SERGEANT

Washington, Feb. 5.—"Reports sounded like those from Winchester and six shooters," said Sergeant Harris, formerly of the Twenty-fifth infantry, in describing before the senate military committee today the shooting at Brownsville, Texas. He seemed confident the shots did not come from Springfield rifles with which the soldiers were equipped. He positively denied knowledge of a conspiracy of silence.

BRUTAL BEATING.

Administered to George Hall, of 1063 North Sixth Street.

Investigation is being made a brutal beating, alleged to have been administered to George Hall, a sick man, at his home, 1063 North Sixth street. Hall's foot was crushed at the marine ways many months ago and he has been laid up most of the time. In a fight Saturday night his jaw bone was broken and his face and body terribly bruised.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

INSANITY EXPERT IN THAW CASE

Alienist Believes Defendant Is Lunatic

Counsel Says They Will Prove He Was Guided By Hallucination in Killing White.

WITNESSES EXAMINED TODAY

New York, Feb. 5.—The state laid its case against Harry K. Thaw today—a plain emotional story of the shooting of Stanford White—leaving malice and the motive to be inferred from the act and the defense replied with a plea of hereditary insanity. It was asserted that Thaw in slaying White believed he was acting as an agent of providence that the real offender was committed against him by the architect and the former friend of his wife, had boiled and bubbled in his brain until at last there came an impulse to kill. When the deed was done Thaw made no move to escape its consequences, but holding the fatal revolver aloft, he stood as if mutely proclaiming to the world: "The deed is done; it was right; it was not wrong."

Thus Thaw's counsel outlined his case to the jury after the prosecution had occupied less than two hours in relating, through eye-witnesses, the narrative of the tragedy. "You will hear the story of this man's insanity," Attorney Gleason for the defense promised the jury "from his mother, his wife, his relatives and his physicians. You will judge him by his acts, by hereditary and the stress which entered into his madness, and when you come to judge him you will say to yourself that his act may be one of insanity, that it was not crime."

That Thaw's wife was to be one of his most important witnesses has long been known; that his mother, Mrs. William Thaw, was to take the stand only became known positively when the court announced the rule excluding from the court room all witnesses save the experts. Thaw's mother, wife and May McKenzie left the court room upon hearing the order.

Thaw seemed dejected. During the opening address by Gleason in which he entered the defense of insanity, Thaw sat with flushed cheeks which at times were buried in his hands, and with eyes cast down upon the table. He seldom looked up, just a fleeting glance now and then at the man who was making the initial plea for his life and freedom. Never once did his eyes go to the jury box.

Wife to Tell of Relations.
Thaw's counsel told the story of the prisoner's love for the girl he was to make his wife and that when he asked her to marry him she refused. "The reason for this refusal you will hear from her lips," announced Gleason, "suffice it to say that the reason had to do with an incident in her life with reference to Stanford White."

Taus laying the ground for a plea of insanity, the defendant's lawyer declared that a brain disease had laid hold of Thaw three or four years ago. Gleason said, "we will not base our plea upon a single act it will be shown there was insanity on both sides of the defendant's family."

It was asserted that Thaw labored under a delusion that his life was always in danger when he was in New York city and believed that threats had been made to kill him. This accounted for the fact that since January, 1904, he had carried a pistol. He had placed in his overcoat pocket the night he went to Madison Square Roof Garden. There he turned suddenly and saw what he thought was a demon glowing at him.

Impulse That of Insane Man.
The impulse came. He felt that to kill White would be an act of providence, and so believing, he set deliberately about his task. It was the work of an insane man, Gleason declared, the result of the delusions of a disordered brain.

Insanity Expert.
New York, Feb. 5.—Dr. Wiley, an insanity specialist from the Dixon insane asylum at Pittsburg, was the first witness in the trial today. He testified that a man who acted as Thaw did before and after the shooting of White, undoubtedly, was insane. In his opinion Thaw did not know he had committed a wrongful act. District Attorney Jerome cross-examined the witness, succeeding in

BLIZZARD RAGES ALONG ATLANTIC

Boston, New York and Washington Snowbound, and Suffering and Inconvenience Result From Cold

TRAIN SCHEDULES ARE UPSET.

In New York.

New York, Feb. 5.—New York is snowbound today by the worst storm of the winter. A blizzard is still raging. Traffic is almost at a standstill, except on the subway. Some portions of the city are practically cut off from communication. Accidents, with deaths in numerous cases, accompanied the storm.

Boston Snowbound.

Traffic Tied Up.

Chicago railroads, street cars, telephone and telegraph service for 100 miles around Chicago are seriously impeded by the heavy snow fall this season generally prevalent throughout the country from Boston to Nebraska. Trains are tied up for hours in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

BEATS MAN TO EXTORT MONEY.

Turkish Official Gets Interest in Business by Use of Rod.

Constantinople, Feb. 5.—The sultan has ordered an investigation of the charges against Fehmi Pasha, chief of the palace police and a favorite of the ruler. Fehmi Pasha recently imprisoned the proprietor of a forest near Midia and caused him to be beaten frequently until he agreed to give his captor 20 per cent of his profits. In accordance with the agreement, Fehmi Pasha seized a cargo of lumber bound for Hamburg. The man took refuge in the German embassy, and as a result of protests from the embassy the sultan ordered the inquiry.

TO INVESTIGATE POLICE CONDUCT

Mayor Yeiser Resents Remark Alleged to Have Been Made Against His Officers By a Saloonkeeper

MAY BE CALLED BEFORE BOARD.

A remark said to have been made in the presence of a newspaper reporter last night may lead to an investigation, Mayor D. A. Yeiser making the suggestion this morning to Chief of Police James Collins and Police Commissioner John Bonds in Chief Collins' office.

Last night J. D. Overstreet applied for a saloon license on North Eighth. He had been fined for selling on Sunday. He is alleged to have made the statement that the reason he was convicted was that two policemen had sent negroes into his saloon to buy whisky so they would have evidence against him for prosecution. Overstreet is claimed to have made the assertion that the policemen took this means of revenge because he refused to furnish them free drinks of whisky.

"If Overstreet made such a statement," Mayor Yeiser declared, "I shall have the policemen up before me and make Overstreet prove it. I think if policemen did do such a thing that Overstreet should be made to come before the board and state it openly, giving names of the policemen, and I think the policemen should see that they are exonerated from any such charge or reflection."

It is stated that the matter will be investigated at once by the board of police commissioners.

The first temperance society was organized in 1808.

INTO ICY RIVER WOMAN IS THROWN

Mrs. J. H. Nofflett is Almost Drowned in the Ohio

Steam Supply of Scotia Gives Out and She Swings Against Gent's Show Boat.

RESCUED AS SHE IS SINKING.

Loss of control of the towboat Scotia through failure of the steam supply caused that boat to swing a barge she had in tow against F. Gent's showboat at the foot of Jefferson street last night at 7 o'clock, and knocked Mrs. J. H. Nofflett off the showboat into the river. Her husband saw the accident and with the assistance of his one-armed brother, Boyne Nofflett, succeeded in rescuing Mrs. Nofflett from the river after she went under the second time.

Fortunately Mrs. Nofflett was knocked off between the boat and the shore, and where the river was only five feet deep. But her heavy clothes made it impossible for her to regain her feet after she had fallen in and she would have drowned if assistance had not been at hand.

It was while Mrs. Nofflett was coming aboard the showboat that the accident occurred. Just as she reached the end of the plank near the boat, the heavy barge completely out of control swung against the other side of the showboat and Mrs. Nofflett was precipitated into the river with dizzy suddenness. Her screams brought her husband to the edge of the boat and his brother, Boyne, though one-armed, sprang into the river and with each holding one side of Mrs. Nofflett she was pulled onto the boat. In rushing to his wife's rescue, J. H. Nofflett half fell on her shoving her completely under the water again.

The cause of the accident was the failure of the steam supply of the towboat Scotia, which was handling barges for the West Kentucky Coal company. According to the Scotia's officers, the machinery allows the steam to escape and at a critical time, the supply completely gave out. The pilot could do nothing with the boat. And the momentum and current of the river swung the barge against the showboat. Mr. Nofflett said that the officers on the Scotia were prompt in coming to their assistance when they heard Mrs. Nofflett scream.

In view of Mrs. Nofflett's delicate condition, the result of the cold plunge may be serious. She was in bed this morning and may have to go to bed. Mr. Nofflett said that the damage done by the accident would be insignificant if Mrs. Nofflett experienced no bad results.

WHITE & SISK SELL STORE TO C. D. DOBBINS

C. D. Dobbins, of Kuttawa, has acquired the White & Sisk dry goods store at 314 Broadway. The store had been under the direct management of Mr. W. J. White, but the confinement was too much. He will be general manager for western Kentucky of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company, of Philadelphia. Mr. Dobbins operates several stores in western Kentucky, and will convert the White & Sisk place into a department store.

DRIVING FINISH IN SMOOT'S CASE

Former Senator Kearns Coming With Delegation

Will Inaugurate Eleventh Hour Social Campaign Against the Mormon Senator.

ARE OLD POLITICAL ENEMIES

Washington, February 5.—There will be a driving finish in the Smoot case on February 20, the date agreed upon for the vote. Senator Smoot stated in open senate there is no one more anxious than he to secure a vote
and Senator Burroughs also says the same thing. Between these two rests the point as to whether a vote will be taken.

Within the past two weeks, and particularly since Senator Hopkins and Sutherland have delivered speeches in behalf of Smoot, the latter's stock seems to have risen, and his adherents claim that he has at least 70 votes in his favor, which fact is responsible for the McLean
senator delaying the vote.

However within the next few days former Senator Kearns of Utah,
the multi-millionaire who was Smoot's colleague for a brief time in the senate, will arrive here with a large delegation of citizens of Utah, and by missionary work among the members of the senate will try to influence as many votes as he possibly can against his former colleague.
This delegation left Salt Lake some time ago, when it appeared that a vote was to be taken in the senate,
but when they were half way across the continent the program in the senate shifted and the vote in the Smoot case was again postponed.

Senator Kearns is a genial host,
and not wishing to have his delegation reach Washington until they could make a twelfth-hour appeal to the senate, he took the delegation to New York, where they are now stopping off at Niagara and other points of interest along the line. It is said to be Senator Kearns' plan to give a series of dinners to his former fellow members of the senate.

Some of the Big Work W. J. Oliver Has Done Building Great Railroads*OLIVER'S WORK.

It was wisdom on the part of the Isthmian canal commission to decide to let by contract the work of constructing the Panama canal, and that wisdom has been emphasized in the demonstration of the commission's ability to secure the lowest bid for the work from an association headed by William J. Oliver of Knoxville, Tenn. Says the Manufacturer's Record. Mr. Oliver, who is just about 40 years of age, has had 20 years' experience in large construction work,
in which he has gained reputation as never attempting anything which he does not thoroughly comprehend
in every detail, and has had to deal
with conditions of climate and labor,
eminently qualifying him to cope successfully with conditions at Panama.
While his associate, Mr. Anson M.
Bangs, is widely known as being especially familiar with lock and dam construction, having completed during the past 10 years for the United States Government the ship lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., costing $2-500,000; Delaware breakwater, 1-500,000 tons of deposit, $2,500,000,
and Buffalo breakwater, 1,250,000 tons of deposit, $2,500,000, Mr. Oliver during the past 14 or 15 years of his operations in the South has been occupied with engineering undertakings of various kinds, involving the employment of 10,000 men at a time and the extent and character of which are well illustrated in the contracts
aggregating $30,000,000 upon which he is now engaged. One of them is the building on the Tennessee river
at a point 12 miles from Chattanooga
of an immense dam of concrete 1200
feet wide, intended to develop 56,000
horse-power for industrial purposes at Chattanooga. The dam, lock and power-house will cost about $2,000-000. In addition, Mr. Oliver is building for the Southern Railway a 42-mile line from Chattanooga to Stevenson, including the big tunnel under Lookout Mountain and Raccoon Gap,
to cost about $5,000,000; the line
from Lookout Mountain to the new Chattanooga Union Station, to cost
$1,000,000; an 80-mile branch from Knoxville south, $3,000,000; extension to the marble quarries near Knoxville, $250,000; yards at Charlotte and Spencer, N. C., $300,000;
double-tracking 16 miles between Ool-etawah Junction and Chattanooga,
$1,500,000; 42 miles from Knoxville
to Morristown, $2,000,000; 17 miles
from Atlanta to Austell, $2,000,000,
and through Lynchburg, Va., including two tunnels and a bridge over the James river, $4,000,000. Other present work of Mr. Oliver includes 20 miles of double-tracking of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad 20 miles south of Birmingham, $1,500,000; of 100 miles of the New Orleans Great Northern road between Slidell and Jackson, $2,000,000; of 20 miles of Central of Georgia line between Greenville and Newnan, $750,000, and of 100 miles of the Big Four Railroad in Indiana and Illinois, costing about $1,000,000, besides 45 miles at different points of double-tracking on the Cincinnati Southern, $2,500,000,
and a number of smaller jobs.

These indicate the scope of Mr.
Oliver's energies directed successfully upon different kinds of enterprises
at widely-separated points, and may be taken as guarantee of all possible
speed and efficiency in the great task
on the Isthmian should the Oliver-Bangs association meet all the other
conditions of the contract and be awarded it, as dispatches from Washington reflect a belief will be done
within a few days.

The announcement of the opening of the bids is a distinct advance toward the completion of the Isthmian Canal.

Bangs association meet all the other
conditions of the contract and be
awarded it, as dispatches from Washington reflect a belief will be done
within a few days.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Manager Roberts has adopted the plan in effect now in the larger cities of not seating the late comers to a performance during an act. The curtain will hereafter rise at 8:30 instead of 8:15 o'clock, as has been the custom for the past few weeks, and no one will be seated until after the first act, if they come in during the act.

"Social Whirl" Tonight.

Laughable complications resulting from a too profuse similarity of initials is the basis of the fun in "The Social Whirl," which will be presented under the Shubert management at The Kentucky tonight. An item published in "The Social Whirl," a society scandal sheet, concerning one "J.
E.," brings nervous apprehension to several, and in their efforts to extricate themselves with credit and without embarrassing disclosures, they

Mr. Charles J. Ross, in "The Social Whirl," at The Kentucky tonight.

succeeded in keeping the house in a roar
of laughter for a trifle over two hours of mirth and melody. The successful musical comedy is in two acts. The book is by Charles Doty and Joseph Herbert, Mr. Herbert also furnishing the lyrics. The music is by Gustav Kerker. R. H. Burnside, general
stage manager for the Shuberts, staged the piece. All the fun that can be extracted from the recent
more dramatic incidents in real life,
in connection with a well known society journal, is reproduced with a musical setting that is full of melody
and catchy airs.

Henry E. Dixey.
Henry E. Dixey, America's most versatile, graceful, finished and artistic comedian, in a play which has been pronounced the greatest comedy success of the past three years, both in New York and Chicago, supported by the greatest acting company assembled since the days of Augustin Daly's stock company, comes to The Kentucky Friday night. Mr. Dixey's play is a dramatization of "The Man on the Box." It is a clean, wholesome, wholly delightful comedy,
with a genuine heart interest, for it tells as pretty and absorbing and as romantic a love story as was ever told, in days of romance, and its scenes are laid in Washington, D. C., at the present day. Besides its heart interest, the play excites as much laughter as an out-and-out farce, between its witty epigrammatic lines and humorous situations.

A new broom and a straight flush makes a clean sweep.

FAINT HEART AND FAIR LADY AGAIN

Old Axiom Is Demonstrated
When Fowler Leaves

Couple Register at New Richmond
House But Back Down Front
Gretna Green Trip.

RETURN TO THEIR FAMILIES

Faint heart lost a fair lady for a youth who registered as C. Tabbard, of Mechanicsburg, this morning
when at the time cmf cmfw vbkk
when as the time approached for the Dick Fowler to leave came, his determination to wed Lillie Farquhar, also of Mechanicsburg, melted, and the two went back to their homes
still in the state of single-blessedness. And thereby hangs a tale.

Last night shortly after supper, the young man, appearing to be under his majority, and the still more youthful young lady, registered at the New Richmond House, and expressed their determination to go to Metropolis this morning to marry.
They engaged separate rooms.

This morning another young couple from Kuttawa, Miss Leona Cash and Bobbie Steele, she of 18 and he
of 21, registered at the New Richmond for breakfast. They too, were going to Metropolis to marry. To the anxious inquiries of the first intended husband, how he could find
"Squire Liggett and make the necessary arrangements for marrying in Metropolis, Colonel Dale, the genial host, told them that "Squire Liggett would meet them at the wharf and have everything ready.

But last night some fun-loving guests of the hotel entered the wedge
of doubt and indecision after Cupid's arrow by telephoning from the hotel bar, to the hotel lobby and pretending to be friends in Mechanics-burg. This got the young people wrought up but their determination to marry carried them through the night.

After breakfast this morning, the couple from Kuttawa with their chaperon, Miss Gertrude Leroy, started

Love of Beauty.

We will try to make some small piece of ground beautiful, peaceful,
and fruitful. We will have no un-tended or unthought-of creatures upon it. We will have flowers and vegetables in our gardens, plenty of corn and grass in our fields. We will have some music and poetry; the child

perhaps some of the old people, in time, may also. We will have some art; and little by little some higher
art and imagination may manifest themselves among us—nay—even perhaps an uncalculating and unco-

For this love of beauty is an es-

Assembling Navy in Pacific Waters
in Anticipation of Any Sort of Clash

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Secretary Metcalf will issue this week a most important order, designed to increase the strategic effectiveness of the American navy. He will consolidate the squadrons now on the Pacific coast and in Asiatic waters into one fleet under the supreme command of Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson. This fleet will engage in comprehensive maneuvers, the object of which will be the protection of the Pacific ships and our Pacific dependencies in case of war.

It is stated authoritatively there is no connection whatever between the reorganization of the navy in the Pacific ocean and the controversy with Japan over the San Francisco school question and the exclusion of the Japanese laborers from this country. Indeed, the general board of service, the president of which is Admiral Dewey, has been considering for some time the steps which should be taken to make more effective the ships now in the Pacific.

Lesson in Japan's Policy.
It is apparent to any one who examines the situation that, scattered as are the men of war today, it would be an easy matter for them to be beaten in detail. This was the way in which Japan destroyed Russia upon the sea, striking at the beginning of the war when the Russian admiral had distributed his vessels among Port Arthur, Chemulpo and Vladivostok. The division of Russians at Chemulpo was destroyed.

then Toga assembled all his vessels off Port Arthur, leaving only a few cruisers in the sea of Japan to take care of the three Russian armored cruisers carelessly left at Vladivostok.

The American navy is much in the same position as that of Russia. On the Pacific coast there is a squadron consisting of four protected cruisers, two of which are heavily armored, two gunboats and five torpedo boat destroyers. In Asiatic waters there are four armored cruisers, two monitors, five protected cruisers, a number of gunboats, a division of five torpedo boat destroyers and four colliers.

United these squadrons would not be a match for any of the great powers having possessions in the Pacific, but they at least would prove a force which would have to be looked after by one even more formidable, and thus would be constituted a serious obstacle in the execution of any plan of campaign which might be determined upon.

Will Add to Pacific Fleet.
Secretary Metcalf and the general board do not propose, however, to permit the American fleet in the Pacific to be weaker than a possible enemy, and there is reason to believe that before many months have passed two divisions of battleships numbering eight of the most modern vessels of this type flying the stars and stripes will be stationed in the Pacific.

There is a small nucleus of a battleship fleet now in that ocean, the Nebraska, of 15,000 tons being about ready for service and the Oregon, having been ordered repaired and remodeled at Puget sound at the cost of $1,000,000. The armored cruiser squadron in the Pacific will be strengthened by two armored cruisers, the California and South Dakota, nearing completion at the Union Iron works, San Francisco. It is the expectation of the navy department that before the year ends the entire American navy will consist of sixteen modern battleships and eight modern armored cruisers, besides a number of second-class battleships, large and small cruisers, and torpedo boat destroyers and auxiliaries.

It has been the naval policy of this government for some years to maintain all its armored strength in the Atlantic ocean because of expectation in naval circles that if the United States were attacked the assailant would launch his engines of destruction from Europe. This belief was responsible for the withdrawal of three battleships from Asiatic waters and the substitution thereof of armored cruisers. But now Germany has ceased to be a bugaboo and besides the time is believed to have arrived when the fleet is large enough to be divided with safety.

Japan Not Up to Uncle Sam.
None of the European powers maintain a formidable fleet in the far east. Even Great Britain has reduced her Asiatic force, but in her case the alliance with Japan made

REVISION

PETITION BEING CIRCULATED
THROUGH STATE.

Massachusetts is the First State Called On to Take Up Tariff Cudgel.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Having failed to secure any result from a Republican tariff revision petition, circulated among members of congress, the Republican revisionists in congress have taken another tack and are circulating a petition of this nature among the members of the Massachusetts legislature. The same course may be pursued before other Republican state legislatures now in session.

The petition asks the president to call an extra session of congress, directly after the adjournment of the present congress, to consider the broad subject of whether certain tariff schedules cannot be changed with advantage to the business interests of the entire country.

It asks that the subject of maximum and minimum tariff be considered as a basis for reciprocity with other nations, but its most significant declaration is: "In all cases of tariff revision the test should be not, is such a duty demanded, but is such a duty needed?" It asks for a permanent tariff commission. Gov. Guild has spoken before in favor of the tariff revision, and of course is regarded as a heretic and dangerous character by the high protection men, of which the Home Market club is the exponent.

The "Broad Line" at the All-night Bank.

That New York is becoming a 24-hour city is the prediction of metropolitan philosophers who have watched the trend of events during the past decade. Wise men of Gotham allege that soon the town will be sleeping and working in three relays of eight hours each; that, in fact, we shall have three distinct populations, each of which will scarcely know how the other two-thirds live. To this theory the firm establishment of the night bank as a factor in the city's commercial life has given an air of stability.

It is only a few months since the first night bank started on middle fifth avenue, where the guided throng passes at night. Already two more are in full swing, one on Sixth avenue on the edge of the theater district, and the other in the midst of the night glare and bustle of Times Square, and two others are scheduled to open soon.

An odd feature of the night bank is the "bread line," as it may be called. This can be seen any night at one of the night banks, when the night restaurant men come to deposit the money they have taken in during the evening. "Bread money," it might be called, or, more descriptively, "lobster money," though the lobster season now grows shorter each year, even in New York's glided district, and the crustacean gets scarcer. To the night restaurant men, however, whether he serve lobster or ham and beans, it has been a relief to be able to take his evening earnings out of his own little safe, and get them into a place of assured safety for the night.—Harold Kelloff in Moody's Magazine for January.

Can't Fool Her!

"Six feet in his boots!" said Mrs. Partington. "What will the impudence of this world come to, I wonder? Why, they might just as well tell me that the man had six heads in his hat."

Success is often prized more because it brings the praise of the world than because of any intrinsic merit of its own.

In the matter of train speed Austria, Italy and Spain are at the bottom of the list.

this possible. According to reports to the naval intelligence office here, Japan has in commission today only five battleships. She is repairing six battleships captured from Russia and is getting ready as rapidly as possible two battleships and four armored cruisers which were laid down at the close of and after the Russian war, and which embody all the lessons of that struggle. Even when all these vessels are completed Japan will have only half the battleship strength of the United States, though she will be slightly superior in respect to the number of armored cruisers.

Frisco Is Willing.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—Mayor Schmitz and the board of education with Assistant Attorney Williams departed today on the Overland limited to confer with President Roosevelt on the Japanese school question. The mayor said the city would yield on the school question if a treaty could be secured stopping coolie immigration.

A BLESSING TO MANY PEOPLE

May Mean Much Less Sickness
Here When Known

Simple Home Made Remedy to Relieve Kidney and Bladder Troubles and Rheumatism.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO MAKE IT

This is a message that will bring happiness again into many families and sunshine into the lives of hundreds of disheartened and discouraged men and women here. It requires just a little inconvenience, for it can't be bought already prepared. It is a simple home prescription, now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles which have made so many cripples and invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments, even in severe hospital cases, prove this simple mixture the remedy for rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful, scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure, puts new life into them and invigorates the entire tract. It makes the kidneys clean the blood. The Dandelion will take care of river trouble and constipation, and is fine for the stomach.

All the ingredients, states a well known local druggist, are of vegetable extraction, making it a safe and harmless prescription at any time.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of patent medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making up this prescription. Wherever this becomes generally known, states a large Eastern publication, it ruins the sale of the patent medicines and so-called rheumatism and kidney cures, which is its best endorsement of virtue.

ABOUT WOMEN.

No game suits the curious woman so perfectly as playing Priest.

Women are always looking toward the sunset of love. Men, toward a rosier dawn.

Woman hates skeletons; but tell her one's in the closet, and she'll go quaking to listen to its rattlings.

"Nonsense, man; he's got a bad cold in the head."

Percussion arms were used in the United States army in 1830.

The first glass factory in the United States was built in 1780.

THE REASON WHY

only the purest, freshest drugs enter our prescriptions is, that with our large and growing business, we are able to turn over our stock of medicines, chemicals and pharmaceutical preparations a dozen times a year, where a smaller druggist can move his supplies only once or twice. In this way our prescriptions are fresh, potent and of dependable quality and are sure to act as your physician expects.

Extreme care is given each prescription by competent registered clerks, and our careful checking system insures against mistakes.

Sharp river rises above at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh yesterday and with the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers showing a disposition to rise, may cause the river here to come to a stand. The gauge this morning registered a fall of 1.2 in the last 24 hours, the stage being 40.2. Business at the wharf is fair.

The Peters Lee will leave Cincinnati Wednesday for Memphis and the Georgia Lee will leave Memphis for Cincinnati Thursday, both arriving at Paducah next Saturday.

Instead of arriving yesterday, the John S. Hopkins will not arrive until tonight and will leave probably Wednesday for Evansville. The Joe Fowler slipped a notch in the schedule yesterday and did not get in until noon today.

The Scotia will go to Caseyville after a tow of coal for the West Kentucky Coal company instead of up the Cumberland river after ties.

After a trip to Joppa yesterday, the Chattanooga did not get away for Chattanooga but probably will today. Ed Peil will go out as one of the pilots.

Two inches of snow fell yesterday and the weather is still too cold for much out-door work around the wharf.

The Butteroff will arrive tomorrow morning from Clarksville and leave at noon the same day for Nashville.

The City of Memphis arrived early this morning from the Tennessee river with a big lumber and hog trip. After unloading the lumber at Joppa the Memphis will come back and leave Wednesday evening for the Tennessee river.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville will continue falling during the next 24 hours but at a decreased rate. At Mt. Vernon will fall very rapidly during the next 24 hours. At Paducah and Cairo will continue falling for an indefinite period, the rate of fall increasing materially during Wednesday.

The Tennessee, at Florence, will continue falling. At Riverton will continue rising during the next 12 to 24 hours and reach a maximum stage of about 22 or 23 feet.

The Mississippi river from below St. Louis to Cairo, and the Wabash, at Mt. Carmel, will continue falling. A run of ice will commence in the Mississippi river at Cairo Tuesday night.

Georgetown, Ky., Feb. 5.—Eleven men Sunday braved death from gases in order to explore the immense cave which has been discovered near Georgetown, and two of the party were almost overcome in trying to get through a passageway in the opening leading under Elkhorn river. route, the party made only a partial examination of the cave and cannot say how large it is, but the indications are that one passage extends to great lengths, with a roof twenty feet high in many places.

RAIL AND WATER.

Significant facts relative to the inadequate equipment of railroads to meet the demand are furnished in the report of the bureau of statistics, department of commerce and labor on internal commerce for 1906, issued yesterday. While the march of prosperity and the development of industries generally goes on without abatement, deliveries of all commodities by rail showed a decrease as compared with the report for the year 1905, and the falling off was especially noticeable during the last few months. Shipments of live stock to interior points showed a falling off of 200,000 head; packing house
products 20,000,000 pounds; grain receipts, 10,000,000 bushels; antari-cite coal, 450,000 tons.

On the other hand the volume of trade on the Great Lakes amounted to 75,610,000 net tons, as compared with 67,345,620 tons in 1905, and 51,370,855 tons in 1904, all three of them being record breaking years.
It is a pity the report does not show
the comparative volume of business
on the inland water ways, for river
traffic has undoubtedly increased.

There is one sure way of keeping peace with Japan. That is not in yawning at the president, but in being prepared for war. Our eastern island possessions are twice as far from America as they are from Japan.
While we are getting a regiment
there Japan can put in fifty.
Without Hawaii, the Philippines and Guam the United States navy
would have no place to coal in a war with Japan. Naturally after steaming across the Pacific and, perhaps, around the Horn, our ships would be out of fuel. Out of fuel
they would be easy prey for Japan.
Common sense tells us what course to pursue. We must fortify our eastern possessions, so that the 10,000 men, who will be rushed to Manila
in the next six months, may hold the fort until our ships arrive. Then we must have a preponderance of armament afloat in the Pacific. It is not a question of the expense of raising this fleet, it is a question of actual necessity. It will break Japan before it will us. Some day the cost will be too great for the little nations that are causing all this war expense and then we will have a sure enough world disarmament.

It must be jolly to belong to the board of health. In most offices a man is confronted with the certainty that he cannot please everybody and he is constantly harassed with the necessity of choosing between offending one side and offending the others. Members of the board of health have no such nerve unding responsibilities. They go rollicking along their way confident in the assurance that they can't please anybody and that they are bound to offend everybody. We rather urged the board of health on in the matter of getting slaughter houses away from the city and seeing that all the meats sold here is wholesome. Now, we learn from a broad-minded contemporary that all this is a scheme hatched up between the board of health and the butchers, and that if the board insists on a strict inspection of all the meat Paducah people have to eat the nearby farmers will pick up their farms and move them

over into Livingston county, or possibly, Illinois, leaving, lack of further explanation leads us to believe,
dark, yawning holes where their farms now nestle. However, the same contemporary in a recent spread on the city market extension, did not manifest such touching regard for the farmers' interest, at that time rather leaning toward the side of the man, who pays a license. However, slaughter houses do stink, and germs do lurk in meat, and we have great confidence in the learning, intelligence and honesty of the city board of health. We were rather inclined to criticize the board for laxity in some matters, but now since at the same time it is to be rebuked
for overzealousness, we feel somewhat confounded.

There is a great deal of slush indulged in, in regard to the probable disclosure at the Thaw trial. No doubt, much that is bad can be unearthed about Harry Thaw's past,
and that of his wife and Stanford
White, but we do not see what light that is going to throw on the killing of White by Thaw, unless it is to show that the murderer was insane.
We are afraid most the newspaper
testimony produced by the "pathos brigade" would be rejected by the court as not pertinent to the question at issue.

Roosevelt's race suicide warning
is being taken up by the legislatures
now in session as though the idea, as suggested by the national administration, is an infringement on state rights, and they are hastening to perform a neglected duty lest the federal government assume jurisdiction. In Illinois a bill is pending for the taxing of bachelors. In Missouri
a bill is pending to limit a woman's annual investment in head gear to two hats, costing $1.98 each. Both measures are entitled "a law to encourage matrimony."

Recognition is due the lower board of the general council in standing by
the righteous action of its predecessor in refusing licenses to saloons in localities where they may prove obnoxious. Such action should be satisfactory to the majority of saloon-keepers, who desire to conduct their business in an orderly, legitimate manner.

It may not have been the rock of Gibraltar, which Senator Dryden's political argosy struck in the New Jersey legislature, but when his good ship foundered, he manifested that wise virtue after which he named his insurance company, and withdrew.

Now, Chief Woods is hoping that Ruth Gray's prophecy was fulfilled
Sunday night.

hole any too soon.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

In contemplating this country's marvelous prosperity, don't overlook
the contribution of the south.

Though the south is only 15 per cent. of the area of the United States proper, it last year contributed more than 25 per cent. of the country's exports.

It is not very long since the south
was hardly considered at all in measuring up the country's business.
The industrial, financial and commercial interests of great weight were all in the east and north and west. Cotton was king, indeed, but a king
without a throne, and New England
took the scepter from him by working him up in northern factories.

The injuries inflicted upon the south by the civil war were terrible, and recovery was painfully slow. But anyone who may regard the south
as still an invalid will see a great light in the actual figures of last year's production, manufacture and trade.

The commercial growth of the south in the last quarter century has been little short of phenomenal.

Capital invested in factories has increased from $257,000,000 in 1880
to $1,500,000,000 in 1906.

The products of factories have increased in the same time from $457-
000,000 to $1,750,000,000.

Capital in cotton mills has leaped
from $21,000,000 to $225,000,000.

The most stupendous increase of all has been from 397,000 tons of pig iron produced to 3,100,000 tons,
and from 179,000 barrels of petroleum to 42,495,000.

The 45 cotton oil mills of 1880
have grown to 780, and the $800-
000 in such mills to $54,600,000.

The east and north and west are no longer the whole country com-mercially.

These sections have generous prosperity—goodness knows—but they haven't got it all.—Cleveland Press.

COLLIDE IN YARD NEAR I. C. INCLINE

Switch Engine and Passenger Train Come Together

No One Is Hurt But Both Locomotives Are Out of Commission for Awhile.

PASSENGER COACH DAMAGED

The blinding snow and escaping
steam from engines caused a head-end collision of passenger train and switch engine in the Illinois Central yards yesterday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock, and as a result two engines are out of commission. A passenger coach was slightly damaged, but no one was injured.

Switch engine, No. 182, Engine-man Cundiff and Foreman John Lehnard were pulling passenger train, No. 374, to the transfer boat from the passenger depot. The train was delayed by connections with the incoming Louisville-Fulton accommodation train, and it was long past its accustomed time to enter the boat yards. This probably accounted in a measure for the collision.

Switch engine No. 199, Engineer
A. W. Shepherd and Fireman Shoemaker, was coming out of spur track,
No. 9, near Trimble street. The snow was blowing in every direction, and it was impossible to see more than an engine's length ahead. Escaping steam from both engines aided in obstructing the view, and with a crash
the two came together.

Each engineer stuck to his position and reversed when he saw the other half a car length ahead. Passengers in the coaches were jarred a little,
but none was seriously bruised. An other engine was secured to put the train on the boat and after a delay
of half an hour the passengers were sent across the river.

This morning both engines are in the round house for repairs. The engines were badly broken and it will require a day or two to put them into shape again. The accident was not the result of carelessness, but unfortunate circumstances.

CAIRO TEAM

SOLD TO THREE I LEAGUE WITH SEVEN PLAYERS.

Deal Consummated Whereby Cairo
Performs Last Sad Rites Over Defunct Kitty.

President Kinsella, of the Springfield Three I team, has performed
the stunt that made Mike Sexton and Wilson Behring famous last year. He has bought the entire Kitty league team, or what there is of it. The Springfield Journal says of the deal:
President R. F. Kinsella yesterday added seven new names to his long list of reserve players for next spring.
He closed a deal by which he secures the contracts of the players from the Cairo team of the K. I. T. league, and the men will report to him for spring practice.

The Cairo club disbanded last Sunday and the proposition to purchase
the entire list was made Saturday and accepted. It is said that some of the Cairo players are promising and will be given trials on the local assignment. President Kinsella has a large delegation of players who will come early in the spring and it will require some time to weed out those who are not ripe for the Three Eye league class. It is likely that a number of trades will be made before the opening of the season.

Included in the list is Pitcher Fox,
who finished the season with Jacksonville. Fox is lacking in experience and his best record is winning thirteen games the latter part of the season for Frank Bell. Fox was purchased by Kinsella some time ago,
and will be on hand when the training season opens.

MRS. LONGWORTH ILL; GRIP.

Confined to Bed After Contracting Cold at the White House.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth is ill with what is stated at her home to be a slight attack of grip. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt spent some time at the Longworth home today and were very much concerned about their daughter's health when they were informed by the attending physician that her temperature had gone up to 102.
Mrs. Longworth contracted a severe cold while attending the white house reception last Thursday night and has been confined to her bed for three days.

New Postal Bill Doomed to Defeat.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Opposition to the postal commission bill is so pronounced that its framers have abandoned all hope of having it considered at this session of congress.
Representative Overstreet, chairman of the house postoffice committee, admits that the measure has no chance of success at this time. The most united efforts of the newspapers of the country to defeat the bill probably will have the effect of putting it permanently to sleep before the meeting of the next congress.

High School Flourishing.

The high school report is particularly satisfactory. It shows that not a pupil was lost out of 198. The second term opened with a big increase from the grades, making the total enrollment the second term of nearly double the original number.

DEATHS OF A DAY

Captain Jack Grammar.

Captain C. Jack Grammar, a former officer in the Evansville and Paducah Peckett company and later a high railroad official, died at 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago, after an operation. He had been resting quietly until a short time before death, and the body will be taken to Evansville, Ind., for burial Thursday.
Captain Grammar began steamboat-
ing many years ago on the Evansville and Paducah and Cairo packets. He was closely associated with the family of the late Captain Joe Fowler and after a pleasant service
on the steamboats resigned and accepted the position of general freight agent for the Evansville and Terre Haute railroad. He was later made president of the road and subsequently was president of the Evansville &
Indianapolis railroad, vice president of the C. O. & S. W. and later general freight and traffic manager of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern. When the Vanderbilts merged many roads into the New York Central lines, Captain Grammar attracted them and was employed as general traffic manager and freight agent. He is survived by his wife and three sons.

NATURE AS A RECONSTRUCTOR.

"Nature repairs her ravages—repairs them with her sunshine and with human labor."

Osteopathy is one of Nature's most used instruments in repairing her ravages. Take the Osteopathic treatment of headaches. It locates the primary cause and removes it, not in administering a common known sed-ative to on- and all alike, but by a simple mechanical manipulation.

So, in digestive disorders Osteopathy restores the nervous equilibrium to the stomach, bowels, liver,
pancreas, etc., and a unity of action
established the disorders are readily controlled and cured.

Constipation can be cured only by observing nature's laws. The regular movements of the bowels depend on their nerve and blood supply. If one or the other is disturbed in any way
there is disorder—sickness. Osteopathy here again is Nature's cure.

I should like to tell you personally
at any time of the great success I am having with the treatment and refer you to some of your friends who will eagerly attest to what Osteopathy is doing or has done for them. Phone me at 1407 at any time.

FOLLOW THE CROWD

TIMID BUFFALO.

Causes Wild Time Among Crowd at Bull Ring.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 5.—The widely advertised battle between a man and a buffalo in the Jaurez bull ring
this afternoon proved a complete fiasco, much to the disappointment of 10,000 people, the capacity of the great arena. The buffalo, instead of charging the bright red cape of the matador, became frightened at the banner and turned and fled. He absolutely refused to fight the matador
or the picadors mounted on horses,
and finally the judges, acting under the Mexican law, announced as punishment to the management that the entire proceeds of the performance
should be appropriated to the public charities of Juarez.

This enraged the crowd, who threw several missiles into the ring and created a riot, until, on the pleas of Manager Felix Robert, the ruling was revoked. The order was hanged to one for refunding the money at the gate, and the imposition of a fine

on the impresario. The gendarmes were called out to prevent people being rushed in the throngs around the ticket office, and there were a number of arrests for cushion throwing.

BOY TRIES SUICIDE FOR LOVE

Lad 11 Years Old Shoots Himself Because Forbidden to Marry.

Waupaca, Wis., Feb. 5.—Alex
Hanson, an 11-year-old boy, attempted to commit suicide here today, and the reason is said to have been objections which were made to his marrying a 13-year-old girl. The boy lives with his mother, who was made a widow three years ago when her husband ended his own life. Today
Mrs. Hanson heard a shot in an upstairs room of her home and, hastening to the room from which the sound came, she found her son on the floor bleeding from a wound
through his left lung.

IN THE COURTS

Circuit Court.

This morning a judgment was entered in the circuit court on the ex parte petition filed by City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., to determine whether the charter amendment fixing police forces in cities of the second class at a minimum of 30 men, infringing on the city's right of self-government, and an appeal was immediately taken. Judge Reed decided that the act of the legislature amending the charter, is constitutional.

Iomolulu, Feb. 5.—Six hundred Japanese immigrants arrived today on the steamer Siberia. A number of them wore the full uniform of Japanese soldiers and two captains in addition to being clothed in the uniform of their rank, wore three war medals.

Discreet.
There is a Chicago lawyer who, his colleagues aver, has a positive genius for malapropos suggestion to his witnesses on the stand.

Recently this lawyer was counsel in a suit for divorce, wherein he was examining a woman who had taken the stand in behalf of the plaintiff.

"Now, madame," began the attorney, who is always saying the wrong thing, "repeat the slanderous statements made by the defendant on this occasion."

"Oh, they are unfit for any respectable person to hear!" gasped the witness.

"Then, madame," said the attorney, coaxingly "suppose you just whisper them to His Honor, the judge." —Harper's Weekly.

SHIP STRIKES AND SINKS BARK.
After Fighting Sea Seventeen Days Vessel Is Sunk in Sight of Port.

Norfolk Va., Feb. 5.—After battling with head winds and heavy seas for 17 days and when within a few hours of her destination, the bark Charles Loring, carrying 380,000 feet of lumber from Savannah to New York, was run into and sent to the bottom by the Old Dominion steamer Seneca last night, four miles off Sea Girt, N. J. The collision occurred in a dense fog. No one was injured and no lives were lost.

Killed Crow and Got Back $200 Ring.
New York, Feb. 5.—A $200 diamond ring was stolen from Mrs. Herman Stoddard's bedroom, Verona, N. J., yesterday; the black thief was killed and the ring recovered.

Mrs. Stoddard loves birds. She feeds her home "The Aviary." She feeds birds and builds houses for them on the estate. So they become quite fearless, but, of all, a crow has shown the greatest tameness and familiarity.

The windows of Mrs. Stoddard's room were open yesterday; her rings were on a dresser. A maid entered the room; the crow was on the dresser; it said "caw" pleasantly to the maid, flew out of a window and perched on a tree branch near. The maid told Mrs. Stoddard, who could not find her engagement ring where she had left it. She was loath to believe that any of her pets was dishonest, but the crow was under such strong suspicion that Adolph Schmidt shot it. He cut open its crop; there was the ring.

Around the bird's leg was a leather band with three links of a small brass chain, showing it had been in captivity at some time.

Worth All It Cost.
A guest who had just registered at the Shirley Hotel a day or two ago was approached by a boy with a telegram. It had $1 charges on it.

"What!" said the guest, before opening it. "A dollar charges! I won't pay it. Nobody who cannot pay for his message when wiring me is certainly a cheap one. Wait a minute! I'll just let you report this uncollected and the sender may pay the charges."

At that he tore the envelope open. As he read a smile settled on his face, and, pulling a dollar from his pocket, he handed it to the boy.

"It's all right," he said.

Then he threw the message on the counter. "Read it!" he said to C. T. Newton, the clerk. The message read:

"Papa's little girl sends him fifty bushels of love, and wishes he was home to kiss her good night, Nellie."

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood.

Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpassed.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils, carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and then by remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter rising after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid, or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and its attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the schools of medical practice have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe, one of the Editorial staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Holcus Dicoica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator. It makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system. It continues 'in Holcus' we have a medicinal agent which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedy. The following are among the leading indications for Holcus (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women; mental depression and irritability associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant generation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; anæmia (unpurged) or absent monthly periods, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmia (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, so invalid women can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Holcus, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents. Of Golden Seal root another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the female system, and cures the diseases for which they are recommended."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. Easy to take as candy.

LIZARD

Came From Mouth of Woman Near Jackson, Tenn.

Jackson, Tenn., Feb. 5.—Mrs. C. B. Johnson, wife of a well known young farmer of the Seventeenth district, yesterday vomited a perfectly formed spring lizard about three inches long. Mr. Johnson brought the strange looking little animal in today to Dr. Grant, the family physician, and it is now on exhibition in his office on Market street.

The experience, as strange as it is, is not new to Mrs. Johnson, as about five years ago after a severe spell of nausea, she threw up a lizard similar to the one her husband brought to the city today.

The queer-looking little creature has brilliant silver spots on its body and in shape resembles the "water dog," which is quite common in some parts of the county.

Dr. Grant and other physicians who have given the strange case their attention are unable to account for the presence of the lizards in Mrs.

Johnson's stomach except on the theory that she drank them while drinking water from a spring.

DEAL MAKES A HIT.

Has Elks' Theater Orchestra at Little Rock, Ark.

Prof. William Deal, formerly leader of The Kentucky Theater orchestra, is building a reputation for himself in musical circles in Little Rock, where he went from here. He is leader of the Elks' theater orchestra in the Arkansas city, and commenting on a dance for which he furnished the music one of the Little Rock papers says: "One of the most pleasant features of the ball was the excellent music furnished by Prof. William Deal's orchestra. The latest popular music was played with perfect time, and the orchestra has proven that it is no longer necessary to send out of the city to secure an orchestra for the swiftest balls."

3,000,000 KISS---RATHER COSTLY

W. Arthur Byrnes of Sydney, Australia, kissed his way into a fortune. The route chosen by him was not the route of the penniless but handsome young man who weds a girl with oceans of money, for the girl that Byrnes kissed not only objected to his act but had no money. Her face was her fortune—and, as it proved, also the fortune of Byrnes.

Perhaps it is not advisable for other young men to try the method adopted by the Sydney young man, but in Byrnes' case it worked well, after a bad start, and after he had paid his last cent to settle a police court fine of $300 and costs, which he considered high, even for the privilege of kissing so pretty a girl, he came into a fortune estimated at over $3,000,000 and one of the finest estates in New South Wales, besides English property. And despite the fact that the kiss she so unwillingly gave the handsome young Englishman brought him his fortune, and the fact that he, in his new found wealth, offered to share it with her, Miss Beth Arleigh has refused him.

The story of the kiss that brought Byrnes his fortune is of the strangest and most romantic ever told—and it is true, because the courts of Sydney have turned over to him the fortune. Otherwise people might doubt it.

Byrnes, it seems, is the youngest son of an Englishman of poor financial condition. He would have inherited part of the Irish estate of his paternal grandfather but for the fact that his own father wasted the money and mortgaged the land. His older brother, who inherited what was left of the estate and all the debts, promptly got rid of the remainder, and died, whereupon young Byrnes, who had thrown away what little money he had in an extravagant and sportive university, went out to Australia.

He did not prosper much in the new country. Handsome, talented, clever and with the blarney of his Irish ancestors mingled with the shrewdness of his Yorkshire mother, he led a happy-go-lucky, adventurous life in the bush country. He served in the constabulary worked as a herder, spent a few months in the gold camps, clerked in a store in Melbourne, wandered all over Australia, rolling much and gathering little moss and finally landed in Sydney, almost penniless, and, found, work as a salesman for a small importing firm.

About this time there lived in Sydney on Newton street one Miss Elizabeth Arleigh. In the cottage home lived the widowed mother, who had come to Australia with her husband years before and after his death in the gold fields had reared her son and daughter according to the way in which she had been reared in her country home in Surrey. Her son, after leaving school, found a responsible position and supported his mother and his pretty sister Beth.

It also happened that fate directed the footsteps of Beth Arleigh to the place where the reckless Byrnes was employed, and although she scarcely noticed him, he fell madly in love with her at first sight. He sought to be introduced, but failed. That Byrnes' intentions were good is certain, but fate furthermore ordained that one afternoon while Byrnes was feeling particularly merry because he had sold a big bill of goods, and perhaps because he had dined and wine his customer and taken too much wine, he saw Miss Arleigh walking toward her home.

The combination of a reckless Irishman in love and in wine proved too much. He saluted Miss Arleigh with stately gallantry, bowed low, raised his hat and smiled. She drew back, startled, and he, without further ceremony, proceeded to take her in his arms and kiss her.

The three witnesses who saw the handsome young man kiss the pretty girl declared in court that it was a most complete kiss. They told the court that Byrnes placed his right arm around her waist, drew her toward him despite her struggles, laid her unwilling, fair head upon his manly shoulder, and, raised her face, kissed her ardently.

The affair didn't end there, Byrnes, happy and much pleased, bowed low and continued his way. Miss Arleigh, her face flushed with shame, hurried home and told her mother and brother. The brother went to seek Byrnes. Meantime Byrnes, having recovered a bit from the dinner, was much ashamed. He sought out the girl and offered the most abject apologies to her mother. Miss Arleigh having refused to see him. He also apologized to the angry brother, who, instead of dropping the matter, caused the arrest of Byrnes.

One of the papers of Sydney took up the case and made a sensation out of it. It told in wonderful language the story, and the description it gave of the kiss that Byrnes administered was enough to make every man in town want to try it. But the court was stern. It fined Byrnes a sum approximating $300, besides the costs. Byrnes, by borrowing, managed to get enough money to pay the fine, and then, crossing the court, he again publicly apologized to the girl, and offered to make every effort at reparation that she would permit.

His act damaged Byrnes' popularity, and brought to him a lot of notoriety. The newspapers continued to dilate on the case.

It happened that almost a year before Byrnes kissed Miss Arleigh there died in Monktown, England, one George Lewes Dent, an extremely wealthy man, whose fortune was made in Australia. He had gone out to Melbourne in the early days, accumulated a fortune and when he had no need of it had inherited the family estates in England.

Little was known of him in England until he died. It was known that years after receiving his inheritance he had returned to his home at Monktown and lived there a year, returning to Australia, and then, after two years, coming back to England, where he died of pneumonia.

It always had been supposed that he had a family in Australia, but when he died it was discovered that he had no relative closer than the son of his younger sister. That sister, it was known, had married a man named Byrnes, but she and her husband were dead the estate closed up, and the younger son had been missing for years. There was no trace of the heir.

Attorneys both in England and Australia were instructed to find Wallace Arthur Byrnes. For a year no trace of him was found. Then one morning Hillard M. Morton, a barrister at Sydney read the story of Byrnes' kiss. He instituted an investigation and established beyond doubt that the kisser was the missing heir to the Dent fortune.

Morton's clerk found Byrnes at work busily regretting the $300 kiss and broke the news of the $3,000,000 legacy to him.

After that the story of the $3,000,000 kiss became public property. The first thing that Byrnes did after receiving the first advance from his solicitors was to call on Miss Arleigh and plead with her to share with him the fortune she had had the misfortune to bring him.

And she, being contrary, like more of her sex, refused. But before Byrnes started for England a fortnight ago he confided in some of his friends that he intended to return to Sydney—and that, as Jones as the $3,000,000 lasted to stand ready to pay $200 each for all the kisses Miss Arleigh would give him—Chicago Tribune.

WHY WE ARE POOR CONVERSATIONALISTS

In olden times the art of conversation reached a much higher standard than today, because of the complete revolution that has taken place in the conditions of civilization. Formerly people had no other way of communicating their thoughts. Knowledge of all kinds passed almost wholly through the spoken word. There were no great daily newspapers, no magazines, or periodicals of any kind. People were not in so much of a hurry as they are today.

The great discoveries of vast wealth in the precious minerals, the new world opened up by inventions and discoveries and the great impetus to ambition have changed all this. In this lightning express age, in these strenuous times, when everybody has the mania to attain wealth and position, we no longer have time to reflect with deliberation, and to develop our powers of conversation. In these great newspaper and periodical days, when everybody can get for one or a few cents the news and information which it has cost thousands of dollars to collect, everybody sits behind the morning sheet or is buried in a book or magazine. There is no longer the need of communicating thought by the spoken word.

It is a rare thing to find a polished conversationalist today. So rare is it to hear one speaking exquisite English, and using a superb diction, that it is indeed a luxury.

We are not only poor conversationalists, but we are poor listeners as well. We are too impatient to listen. Instead of being attentive and eager to drink in the story or the information, we have not enough respect for the talker to keep quiet. We look about impatiently, perhaps, snap our watch, play a tattoo with our fingers on a chair or table, hither about as if we were bored and were anxious to get away, and interrupt the speaker before he reaches his conclusion. In fact, we are such an impatient people that we have no time for anything excepting to push ahead to elbow our way through the crowd to get the position or the money we desire. Our life is feverish and unnatural. We have no time to develop charm or manner, or elegance of diction. "We are too intense for epigram or repartee. We lack time."

Life is becoming so artificial, so forced, so diverse from naturalness, we drive our human engines at such a fearful speed, that our life is crushed out. Spontaneity and humor, and the possibility of a fine culture and superb charm of personality in us are almost impossible and extremely rare.—Success.

"I cannot be your wife," she replied, and added: "This is final." He paced swiftly to and fro, several times, then halted abruptly in front of her. cannot be cured, but it CAN be prevented. And all who are threatened should quickly safeguard themselves against this hopeless half-death. Are YOU threatened? In the blood is a certain impurity, known as uric acid. This impurity is frequently deposited in the walls of the blood vessels until the arteries become brittle like chalk. When the blood pressure becomes high, these hardened arteries break, and the blood rushes out over the brain. This blood clots, and by pressure, destroys the action of the brain cells covered by the clot. This results in paralysis. Flethy, short, thick-necked people are most liable, because their blood usually contains more uric acid. You must get rid of that uric acid. You must wash every unnatural trace out of your system. The agent Nature has provided for this very purpose is LIFE PLANT. LIFE PLANT goes all through your system and dissolves every trace of uric acid, leaving the body not only free from disease and in perfect running order—but free from the very danger of death itself.

No matter what the nature of your complaint is, write your symptoms fully to Dr. I. J. Mizer, President of the Life Plant Co., Canton, O. and receive his personal advice free. Every household should have a helpful book—GOOD HEALTH—mailed free to you on request.

CHAPTER VI.

ALL the next day Chilcote moved in a fever of excitement. Hot with hope one moment, cold with fever the next, he rushed with restless energy into every task that presented itself, only to drop it as speedily. Twice during the morning he drove to the entrance of Clifford's inn, but each time his courage failed him and he returned to Grosvenor square to learn that the expected message from Loder had not come.

It was a wearing condition of mind, but at worst it was scarcely more than an exaggeration of what his state had been for months and made but little obvious difference in his bearing or manner.

In the afternoon he took his place in the house, but, though it was his first appearance since his failure of two days ago, he drew but small personal notice. When he chose, his manner could repel advances with extreme effect, and of late men had been prone to draw away from him.

In one of the lobbies he encountered Fraide surrounded by a group of friends. With his usual furtive haste he would have passed on, but moving away from his party the old man accosted him. He was always courteously particular in his treatment of Chilcote, as the husband of his ward and godchild.

"Better, Chilcote," he said, holding out his hand. At the sound of the low, rather formal tones, so characteristic of the old statesman, a hundred memories rose to Chilcote's mind, a hundred hours distasteful in the living and unbearable in the recollection, and with them the new flash of hope, the new possibility of freedom. In a sudden rush of confidence he turned to his leader.

"I believe I've found a remedy for my nerves," he said. "I—I believe I'm going to be a new man." He laughed with a touch of excitement.

Fraide pressed his fingers kindly. "That is right," he said. "That is right. I called at Grosvenor square this morning, but Eve told me your illness of the other day was not serious. She was very busy this morning. She could only spare me a quarter of an hour. She is indefatigable over the social side of your prospects, Chilcote. You owe her a large debt. A popular wife means a great deal to a politician."

The steady eyes of his companion disturbed Chilcote. He drew away his hand. "Eve is unique," he said vaguely. Fraide smiled. "That is right," he said again. "Admiration is too largely excluded from modern marriages. And with a courteous excuse he rejoined his friends.

It was dinner time before Chilcote could desert the house, but the moment departure was possible he hurried to Grosvenor square.

As he entered the house the hall was empty. He swore irritably under his breath and pressed the nearest bell. Since his momentary exaltation in Fraide's presence his spirits had steadily fallen until now they hung at the lowest ebb.

As he waited in unconcealed impatience for an answer to his summons he caught sight of his man Allsopp at the head of the stairs.

"Come here!" he called, pleased to find some one upon whom to vent his irritation. "Has that wire come for me?"

"No, sir. I inquired five minutes back."

"Inquire again."

"Yes, sir," Allsopp disappeared.

A second later after his disappearance the bell of the hall door whizzed loudly.

Chilcote started. All sudden sounds, like all strong lights, affected him. He half moved to the door, then stopped himself with a short exclamation. At the same instant Allsopp reappeared. Chilcote turned on him excitedly.

"What the devil's the meaning of this?" he said. "A battery of servants in the house and nobody to open the hall door?"

Allsopp looked embarrassed. "Crap-ham is coming directly, sir. He only left the hall to ask Jeffries."

Chilcote turned. "Confound Crap-ham!" he exclaimed. "Go and open the door yourself."

Allsopp hesitated, his dignity struggling with his obedience. As he waited the bell sounded again.

"Did you hear me?" Chilcote said.

"Yes, sir," Allsopp crossed the hall. As the door was opened Chilcote passed his handkerchief from one hand to the other in the tension of hope and fear, then as the sound of his own name in the shrill tones of a telephone boy reached his ears he let the handkerchief drop to the ground.

Allsopp took the yellow envelope and carried it to his master.

"A telegram, sir," he said. "And the boy wishes to know if there is an answer." Picking up Chilcote's handkerchief, he turned aside with elaborate dignity.

Chilcote's hands were so unsteady that he could scarcely insert his finger under the flap of the envelope. Tearing off a corner, he wrenched the covering apart and smoothed out the filmy pink paper.

The message was very simple, consisting of but seven words: Shall expect you at 11 tonight.

He read it two or three times, then

he looked up. "No answer," he said mechanically, and to his own ears the relief in his voice sounded harsh and unnatural.

Exactly as the clock chimed 11 Chilcote mounted the stairs to Loder's rooms. But this time there was more of haste than of uncertainty in his steps, and, reaching the landing, he crossed it in a couple of strides and knocked feverishly on the door.

It opened at once, and Loder stood before him.

The occasion was peculiar. For a moment neither spoke; each involuntarily looked at the other with new eyes and under changed conditions. Each had assumed a fresh standpoint in the other's thought. The passing astonishment, the half impersonal curiosity that had previously tinged their relationship, was cast aside, never to be reassumed. In each the other saw himself—and something more.

As usual, Loder was the first to recover himself.

"I was expecting you," he said. "Won't you come in?"

The words were almost the same as his word of the night before, but his voice had a different ring, just as his face when he drew back into the room had a different expression—a suggestion of decision and energy that had been lacking before. Chilcote caught the difference as he crossed the threshold, and for a bare second a flicker of something like jealousy touched him, but the sensation was fleeting.

"I have to thank you," he said, holding out his hand. He was too well bred to show by a hint that he understood the drop in the other's principles, but Loder broke down the artifice.

"Let's be straight with each other, since everybody else has to be deceived," he said, taking the other's hand. "You have nothing to thank me for, and you know it. It's a touch of the old Adam. You tempted me, and I fell." He laughed, but below the laugh ran a note of something like triumph—the curious triumph of a man who has known the tyranny of strength and suddenly appreciates the freedom of a weakness.

"You fully realize the thing you have proposed?" he added in a different tone. "It's not too late to retract even now."

Chilcote opened his lips, paused, then laughed in imitation of his companion, but the laugh sounded forced.

"My dear fellow," he said at last, "I never retract."

"Never?"

"No."

"Then the bargain's sealed."

Loder walked slowly across the room and, taking up his position by the mantelpiece, looked at his companion. The similarity between them as they faced each other seemed abnormal, defying even the closest scrutiny. And yet, so mysterious is nature even in her lapses, they were subtly, indefinitely different. Chilcote was Loder deprived of one essential; Loder, Chilcote with that essential bestowed. The difference lay neither in feature, in coloring nor in height, but in that baffling, illusive inner illumination that some call individuality and others soul.

Something of this idea, misted and tangled by nervous imagination, crossed Chilcote's mind in that moment of scrutiny, but he shrank from it apprehensively.

"I—I came to discuss details," he said quickly, crossing the space that divided him from his host. "Shall we?—Are you?" He paused uneasily.

"I'm entirely in your hands," Loder spoke with abrupt decision. Moving to the table, he indicated a chair and drew another forward for himself.

Both men sat down. Chilcote leaned forward, resting elbows on the table. "There will be several things to consider," he began nervously, looking across at the other.

"Quite so," Loder glanced back appreciatively. "I thought about those things the better part of last night. To begin with, I must study your handwriting. I guarantee to get it right, but it will take a month."

"A month?"

"Well, perhaps three weeks. We mustn't make a mess of things."

Chilcote shifted his position. "Three weeks?" he repeated. "Couldn't you?"

"No, I couldn't," Loder spoke authoritatively. "I might never want to put pen to paper; but, on the other hand, I might have to sign a check one day." He laughed. "Have you ever thought of that—that I might have to, or want to, sign a check?"

EXCITING TIME IN COUNCIL BOARD

Three Licenses Refused And Some Granted Over Protest

Lower Board Concurs in Suggestion of Mayor for a Building Inspector.

TAX COLLECTOR TO GET MORE.

The board of council adjourned last night at 10 o'clock after passing on over 100 saloon licenses. There was a stiff fight made over one application, but what promised to be a long drawn out meeting was averted by a resolution limiting the length of speeches. Other business before the board was routine.

Councilmen Herzog and Sheiton were absent.

Mayor Yeiser read a condemnation of buildings by Fire Chief Wood and Electrical Inspector W. J. McPherson. The matter was referred.

Mayor Yeiser recommended that an ordinance creating the separate office of "building inspector" be drafted. The recommendation was concurred in.

A report from Dr. Ed Farley, milk and meat inspector, was filed. It stated that the pure milk is being sold.

John Gofightly, near the Union depot, and Oscar Denker, 1044 Kentucky avenue, withdrew applications for coffee house licenses.

A petition for a rebate of $60 license from Hummel Bros. was referred.

Mayor Yeiser presented a map and dedication of Bloom and Paxton streets in Littleville, with a prayer that the city grade and gravel them. Bloom street is the old "Pool road" which residents have been desiring to have graded and graveled for four years. The Kentucky Realty company made the dedication. The matter was referred to the street committee to bring in an ordinance for the improvements at once.

Mayor Yeiser recommended paving and guttering with concrete Fourth street from Clay street to Trimble street. The committee was ordered to bring in such an ordinance.

The report of Treasurer John Doran, compiled by Auditor Kirkland, showing a balance in the treasury of $9,647.50 January 31, was filed.

Ordinances. Ordinance prohibiting hucksters from selling fruits or other articles on Jefferson street, Broadway and Kentucky avenue and side streets between Sixth and First streets, first passage. Rule suspended and second reading given.

Ordinance increasing the commission of back tax collector from 10 per cent to 25 per cent, first passage. Rule suspended and second reading given.

A petition asking that a portion of the Armour property on the river front between Broadway and Kentucky avenue be condemned for what space was referred to the street committee with instructions to take action at once.

Licenses. Applications for liquor license were taken up. The council chamber was well filled with persons fighting certain coffee house licenses, prominent among them being the Rev. Calvin Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church. The saloon men were out in force, represented by legal talent, and the seats in the chamber held many persons drawn by the fight assured over certain licenses.

License Inspector George Lehnhard read all applications for retail, quart and gallon and wholesale licenses, and all against which a remonstrance has been filed were laid aside to be voted on separately, and all against which no remonstrance was filed were passed collectively.

Protested applications were taken up. On motion of Councilman Williamson each side was allowed five minutes for argument.

Paducah Distilleries company, 128 South Third street. The Rev. Calvin Thompson protested because of the circulation of indecent literature. Application refused.

A. Rosenthal, Thirteenth and Clay streets. License allowed.

B. Padgett & company, 1300 Clay street. License granted.

Theodore Peters, 1044 Broadway. The Rev. Thompson cited Peters' conviction for selling without a license in police court. License refused.

J. D. Overstreet, 900 North Eighth street. The Rev. Thompson protested on account of violations of the law. License granted.

H. H. Evans & company, Twelfth and Trimble streets. The Rev. Thompson stated that 90 per cent of the property owners were against this application. Protests from others, the Rev. G. W. Banks among them, were heard. License refused.

Money deposited on applications was ordered refunded.

Councilman Crandell lodged a complaint against the bad condition of Nineteenth street from Broadway to Guthrie avenue. The traction company is putting in a new track on this street, and the mud, except between Broadway and Kentucky avenue, renders the street impassable. The matter was referred for immediate relief.

Councilman Williamson complained of trash being dumped at Second and Monroe streets, and the board of health was instructed to look after it.

Engineer Washington stated that a detail map had to be made for sewer district No. 2 before the estimates could be made out. He suggested appropriating $250 to an abstractor to secure data for the map. The recommendation carried.

Way of the Indian Faker. The faker started, and went to work scraping together before him a little heap of dirt and gravel. This done, his impudence suddenly apparent in his miserable countenance, he held up toward me, with a flourish, a shriveled mango.

I got up. "Can he do the rope trick at all?" I asked bitterly of Moonesuami. That wretched fellow wriggled in embarrassment.

"Sah'b," he whined, "he he says he have forgotten hees rope."

"Get him one."

"Ah, Sah'b, he must use hees own."

"It is worth 200 rupees to you."

"Ah, Sah'b, I am a vared poor man!"

"Can he cut off the boy's head and stick it on again?"

"Ah, Sah'b, it would not be permit by the police. . . . But he can take toothpicks out of hees eyeballs! Look! Look!"

"Send him away," I said in dry despair, and went in with my my fellow-countryman. We left the greatest faker in India squatting in the gravel in each hand a toothpick freshly extracted from a staring eyeball.—Stephen French Whitman in "The Fakeers," in the Outing Magazine for January.

PROVIDENT CO. IS INCORPORATED

Papers Are Received Ready For Business

Paducah's First Life Insurance Company Will Open Headquarters Soon.

IN THE TRUEHEART BUILDING

The Provident Casualty association has received its incorporation papers from Frankfort, and is now ready to begin business. The officers of the company are Charles E. Jennings, president; D. H. Hughes, vice president; John D. Smith, secretary; H. C. Overbey, treasurer; J. T. Hughes, medical director; C. K. Wheeler and W. A. Berry, attorneys; F. B. May, supervisor; R. E. Bayliss, inspector.

This is the first insurance company ever organized in Paducah. The officers are all local men, and from the indications attending the organization they have great faith in the ultimate success of the company.

The company is a fraternal association and will issue health and accident policies, and also life insurance policies. For the present, most of the energies will be centered in the health and accident field, the life insurance being incidental to the health and accident. It is the intention to convert the company, however, into an old line life insurance company, when it has accumulated sufficient surplus.

"We believe we shall be very successful with our company," said Mr. C. E. Jennings, the president, "and, if we are it will mean a great thing to Paducah. There is no reason why we should not secure a good line of business, and bring a great deal of money to Paducah. Louisville and Indianapolis are but fair examples of what can be done in that line. Each city has several very substantial insurance companies, and the money they bring to the cities has been a great factor in the development of both towns."

The company has secured one of the lower floors of the Trueheart building and will be established in its quarters the latter part of the week.

There are now 300 beautiful squares, 106 council parks and breathing places, 12 royal parks and 120 bought gardens in London. London is said to be the greenest large city in the world.

MAKES LIMIT TWO $1.98 HATS.

Missouri Legislature Proposes Check on Women's Expenditures.

Jefferson City, Feb. 5.—Representative Norflett, of Morgan county says that on the day the legislature adjourns he will introduce a bill "to prohibit any woman from purchasing more than two hats during any one calendar year; to regulate the price to be paid for such hats, and to prevent the wearing of any plumage thereon."

The first provision of his bill reads: "Hereafter it shall be unlawful for any woman, either married or single, to purchase for herself, or to receive or in any way procure for her use and benefit more than two hats, each to cost no more than $1.98, oftener than every twelve months."

LAWRENCE DENIES

HE HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH BOGUS PRAYER CHAIN.

Paducah Woman Writes to Him Regarding Message, Which Has Reached This City.

Notwithstanding the papers at various times have stated that Bishop Lawrence had disclaimed all responsibility for the "prayer" chain sent out in his name, the fact seems not to be generally known and many in Paducah have felt impelled by seeing his name to it, to send the letters on. A prominent lady of the city who recently received one, wrote, however, to Bishop Lawrence in regard to it. She has received following reply and wishes it given to others as per his request:

Bishop Lawrence has your communication. He is constantly receiving so many similar ones that he is obliged to use this form of acknowledgment.

He has had nothing whatever to do with, and is in no way responsible for, the endless chain prayer and the hopes that those receiving them will destroy them.

Denials to this effect have been published by Bishop Lawrence and others in many papers.

As so many people have been disturbed by the threat you will oblige him by having a denial published in your local paper.—R. M. Hull, Secretary.

THIRD MINE EXPLOSION.

Another Disaster Report in West Virginia District.

Elkins, W. Va., Feb. 5.—A third mine explosion in West Virginia within two weeks occurred today at the Davis Coal and Coke company mine No. 25, at Thomas, near here, and 25 or 30 miners are said to have been killed.

A rescuing party recovered the bodies of six foreigners and one American. Before further progress could be made a deadly wave of poisonous fumes enveloped the rescuing party and one of them, Daniel Jones, mine boss, died from suffocation.

There is no possible hope that the men still in the mine are alive. While the exact number of entombed men is not known at this time, the number is estimated at about 30 and it is thought that probably there are more.

Pace Too Swift on Wall Street.
New York, Feb. 5.—Howard P. Frothingham, who while delirious from nervous breakdown, jumped from the second story of his home in West Seventy-seventh street, yesterday, died just before last midnight. The death was not reported to the police until today, when the coroner instituted an investigation. Nervous strain due to recent reverses in Wall street is believed to have caused the dependency which resulted in the deed.

The largest crematory in Germany is at Gotha. The number of bodies burned in it last year was 445, an increase of 66 over 1905.

Growth of Moose Jaw Outlined in Article That Sheds Light on West Canada

The present growth of this city typifies, as well as anything I know, the growth of all western Canada. In fact, Moose Jaw is growing so fast that a man wonders, when he steps down from a Soo train, whether western Canada itself can follow the pace which this city is setting. At present Moose Jaw has a population of about 7,000, but it shares with several other towns in this great new West the disturbing conditions that statistics of today fall far short of tomorrow's telling.

Moose Jaw is one of the chief divisional points on the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, besides being the terminal point of the Soo railway. And its railway activity is just beginning. A branch of the Canadian Pacific railway is now under construction north and thence to Edmonton.

At present Moose Jaw has four chartered banks and one private bank and they are all working over time. Municipal ownership is an established principle here. The city owns her own water, sewerage and electric lighting plant, and spent last year over $850,000 on public works and new buildings.

At the doors of Moose Jaw lie rich agricultural lands.

"Is there any of this land still available, and what has one to pay for it?" I hear the farmer ask.

The price of land in the district of Moose Jaw is from $10 to $20 per acre, and at this price is rapidly being taken up. In this district in 1905 72,806 acres were under crop, and from this land the provincial Government report shows the average wheat yield to have been 27.56 bushels to the acre. Oats yielded an average of over fifty-eight bushels. Taking the city of Moose Jaw as a center and radiating from this for a distance of twenty miles, the season's crop was two million bushels of hard wheat.

There are rare opportunities in the district for the ranchman. Twenty miles south of Moose Jaw the ranching district commences. This district consists of 8,000,000 acres of Dominion Government lands not yet surveyed. A great part of this vast district is believed to be rich farmland, potential with harvests that will insure to the farmer competence, independence, wealth. If this is true this district will within a decade produce wheat which will find a place in Britain's bread basket, and, carried westward across the Pacific, will be welcomed in far off Japan. The rich soil is there in broad Government acres, waiting the plow share of the adventurous. It is a case of faith and industry, and today, therefore, in Moose Jaw and its surroundings lies every man's opportunity.—Moose Jaw Corner Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ABOVE RIVER

WRECKING CREW OF M. & O.
WORKED IN COLD WIND.

Cairo Bridge Accident Tied Up Two Railroads Several Hours Last Night.

For more than four hours last night an M. & O. wrecking crew worked, high above the Ohio river at Cairo, exposed to the coldest winds, to replace a derailed car and make it possible for traffic to resume on the Mobile and Ohio and Illinois Central railroads. It was probably one of the most distressing experiences of any wrecking crew in this section of the country. Last evening while crossing the bridge at Cairo a freight car axle broke and the car was derailed. This was just before the Cairo-Paducah accommodation en route to Paducah passed. It was just before the north bound passenger from Paducah to Cairo got across, and both trains were blocked. Traffic on the Mobile and Ohio was also suspended.

It was after 11 o'clock before the car was in a position to move.

Sought Jail, Then Death.
